

GE 401(k) Litigation Details

Some former and current GE employees may have recently received a Notice of Class Action detailing ongoing litigation concerning GE's use of General Electric Asset Management ("GEAM") funds in the General Electric 401(k) Plan, and its predecessor, the GE Savings and Security Program. Specifically, if you have invested in these GEAM funds since 2011, you may be an eligible participant in this class action. Note: No action is needed from any eligible individuals at this time.

Lawsuits alleging corporate breach of fiduciary duty within retirement plans often take years to resolve. As such, we cannot offer any estimated timeframe of conclusion at this juncture. If you believe you may be impacted by this class action – if you are, or have, invested in GEAM funds within the GE 401(k) plan – we encourage you to speak directly with your dedicated ARGI advisor to review the appropriateness of these funds as they relate to your overall, personal financial plan. As always, your team at ARGI remains available to answer any question you may have.

Disclaimer: The service and/or details described above is provided to ARGI clients as part of the financial planning process and is for general informational purposes only. This does not constitute the solicitation or provision of legal advice and should not be used as a substitute for obtaining independent, individualized legal advice from an attorney licensed to practice in your jurisdiction. ARGI is not a law firm, and our employees are not acting as your attorney. An attorney-client relationship should not be inferred.

FINDING FINANCIAL CLARITY

Respective services provided by ARGI Investment Services, LLC, a Registered Investment Adviser, ARGI CPAs & Advisors, PLLC, ARGI Business Services, LLC, and Advisor Insurance Solutions. All are affiliates of ARGI Financial Group.